

Who we are...

Biography: Edward E. Saborio

Mr. Saborio's reputation as an exceptionally organized and committed development manager is based on over 30 years of broad-based experience in the real estate development industry. He is well skilled in the building development phases of acquisition, entitlement, design, construction and occupancy. Mr. Saborio began his career in the production department of a San Fernando Valley architectural firm. He continued to work in the architectural field until 1984 when he left his position of Senior Associate with Gensler & Associates to expand his managerial skills to encompass the full development process. Mr. Saborio then worked with several of Los Angeles' most distinguished development firms including Tooley & Company, The McGregor Company, and Metropolitan Structures.

Throughout his career Mr. Saborio's attention to detail has made him particularly effective at projecting and managing budgets and schedules. He has assembled and directed teams of professionals through projects ranging in type and size from high end custom homes and residential remodels to multi-use commercial and institutional developments.

His passion for homes has led him to direct the development of numerous single family residences ranging in size from 2,400 to 43,000 square feet. Recognizing the need for development management services for high-end custom residences, he formed Planning Partners Limited to service this need. This has allowed Mr. Saborio to bring his proven managerial talents to the service of individuals who have the dream to create for themselves a unique living environment.
